

Large Macular Scar of Recurrent Toxoplasmic Chorioretinitis

Elorch H., Kouisbahi A., Mouine S., Berraho A.

Ophthalmology B department, Mohammed V University Rabat Morocco

Corresponding author: Elorch H., Kouisbahi A*

I. MANUSCRIPT

29 year old woman who presents Large pigmented chorioretinal macular scar about eight papillary diameters (Figure 1) of left eye, suggestive of recurrent chorioretinal toxoplasmosis and a temporal cicatricial toxoplasmosis scar in the right eye about one papillary diameter (Figure 2).

Figure 1: Large pigmented chorioretinal macular scar in left eye

Figure 2 : Temporal cicatricial toxoplasmosis scar in the right eye about one papillary diameter

Corresponding author: Elorch H., Kouisbahi A
Ophthalmology B department, Mohammed V University Rabat Morocco